Warehouse Offers 24/7 Security and Accessibility to the Dulles Airfreight Facility for Fine Art Shipments From Around the World

Washington, DC – January 23, 2008 – SurroundArt, the leading provider of fine arts services including storage, crating, packing art handling, and transportation, is pleased to announce the opening of a new satellite storage vault in Dulles, Va. The facility has been designed to meet the needs of the most demanding collectors, galleries, artists and museums.

Originally built in 2006, the facility has been updated to feature full climate and humidity control, a state-of-the-art security system that features camera surveillance and coded alarms. The warehouse is conveniently located on the perimeter of Dulles Airport and is only two miles from the main airfreight facility for all major airlines.

“The proximity to Dulles makes our new art storage facility a valuable commodity,” said SurroundArt CEO Michael Murray. “Shipping fine art and artifacts by air can be a stressful endeavor, offering this service right at a major international Airport removes one concern in our client’s logistics planning.”

This facility not only meets the needs for fine art air freight shipments, but also provides long-term storage with excellent access for any size truck or tractor trailer. In addition, the facility is backed up with a generator system and can be accessed 24 hours, seven days a week to meet the scheduling needs of any client.

“This initiative demonstrates SurroundArt’s level of commitment to providing solutions to the industry we serve,” said Murray. “We are confident that our dedicated team of specialists will provide exceptional service for those who need immediate storage after transportation to the Washington area.”
